CREATIVE JAPANESE LANGUAGE SCHOOL

Introduction

Creative Japanese language school Chairman, Isamu Kojima

Hello everyone.

I am Isamu Kojima, Chairman of Creative Japanese language school. I established the Nichinoken cram school (juku) over 50 years ago and have been involved in the education sector ever since. I also built schools in Mongolia and Nepal to support children there to get an education. I have met many great people through my donation work and many of them told me how much they want to study Japanese language, technology and culture etc. Therefore I wanted to help them make their dream come true. So I decided to establish our Creative Japanese language school. I hope you can make lasting friendships with students from many other countries and you play an active role as a bridge between your country and Japan with the Japanese language that you learn at the Creative Japanese language school.

In 1968 Isamu Kojima founded the Nichiken kanto group company. He also published books about education and business. Now he is President of the Yokohama Hiyoshi Rotary club which has a scholarship programme to support foreign students in Japan.

From my extensive 50 year experience, I have learned that good teaching depends on teachers with "PASSION" from my over 50 years of experience.

Philosophy of education

We are determined to cultivate international people across the world who will actively use the Japanese language as a bridge between their own country and Japan.

Director, Hiroko Shibuya

Why do you want to study in Japan? I think everyone has a different reason for coming to Japan and deciding to study here.

Studying abroad is not only about learning the language but also a good opportunity for you to appreciate a new culture and the people behind the language. Also, you might see your own country differently from the outside. Your friendships with classmates who have diverse views will certainly broaden your perspective.

It is fun to learn new things. So I would like you to learn from each other and improve together. I am happy to help you make your dream come true.

Let`s chase a dream together in Yokohama!

Ms. Shibuya sensei (teacher) has over 20 years of Japanese language teaching experience. She has taught at Tokyo University of Foreign Studies, other universities overseas and famous Japanese language schools in Japan. And she has published many research presentations.
